

Become a Rutgers Science Explorer Graduate Fellow

Interested in opportunities to share your science beyond your department? Join our interdisciplinary group of Rutgers graduate students. Rutgers Science Explorer Fellows visit schools across the state of NJ and engage middle school students in activities on a variety of scientific topics. We are looking for current graduate students who enjoy teaching and communicating their science to youth. Training and hourly compensation is available.

This is a paid opportunity for graduate students from across Rutgers University.

To apply or for more information, contact Dr. Carrie Ferraro, Director of the Rutgers Science Explorer, at ferraro@sas.rutgers.edu